

Clean Street Food Hub

Aims to raise the quality of street food vending to the level of food courts and established hotels and restaurants. This will build trust among consumers to have a safe and hygienic local eating experience.

'Eat Right at Street'

A hub or cluster of vendors/shops/stalls selling popular street foods, 80 per cent or more of which represents local and regional cuisines and meets the basic hygiene and sanitary requirements.

These clusters of street food vendors would be certified through a process of initial audit to identify gap, improvement through hand holding and training of vendors, final audit for verification and thereafter sustenance through routine inspections and testing.

Clusters of vendors in a authorized food vending zone having access to common facility

Licensing and Registration under FSSAI, 2006 for all vendors under the cluster.

State FDA official and FSSAI empaneled auditing agency jointly fo first audit of vendor and overall hub conditions.

All food handlers engaged will be trained under FoSTAC

State FDA will send recommendation for certification of hub as "clean street food hub" after ensuring 80% compliance is achieved in first audit followed by training

Second Audit is required where 80% benchmarks not met in first audit and it will be conducted once gaps identified at the time of first audit are complied

Certificate will be issued for two years, during this period local FSO will do inspection and random sampling based on risk at frequency of six month .Certificate will be renewed after doing verification audit one month before expiry of validity of issued certificate.
